

Celebrating a New Milestone

ISO 9001:2015 Certification

Lote Consulting is proud to announce that it has been awarded ISO 9001:2015 certification which recognises that our operations are in line with the International Standards for Quality Management.

This accreditation is a major milestone in our organisational journey to demonstrate our commitment to providing a high-quality and consistent fire safety, risk engineering and security consulting service to our clients, industry partners and broader community at large. This includes our ongoing investments in emerging technology, innovative processes and state of the art procedures.

We remain committed to delivering an extraordinary service and striving to deliver beyond expectations.
